How to Automate the New Amazon Review Requests

Getting started is very easy. Simply activate the new Amazon Feedback and Review

Request Template with any FeedbackFive campaign to start sending these requests to your buyers. Here's how:

2. Select the Feedback and Review Request Template.

FeedbackFive is an Amazon review request tool that will tell Amazon which of your orders to send requests for based on your campaign settings. This communication is sent over a secure and authorized connection. Because these messages are sent outside of the Buyer-Seller Messaging system, there are a few things to keep in mind. Here's what you should know about messages sent with the Amazon Feedback and Review Request template in FeedbackFive:

Amazon creates the message content, so it is 100% policy compliant by design. Since Amazon controls the content of the Request a Review email message and the eligibility for each order, you can continue to request reviews for your orders without worrying about violating any policies or guidelines. You also don't have to worry about whether the wording of your review request will be effective with your buyers. Amazon has optimized the content of the message based on its own email-to-review conversion data, so the end result is a message that is designed to get results while following Amazon's rules about communicating with buyers.

Amazon agency Marknology also shared that their clients saw similar results from using the Amazon Feedback and Review Request Template in FeedbackFive. Since the message is sent to buyers from Amazon on behalf of the seller, it is typically viewed as trustworthy by buyers. Many are accustomed to opening emails from Amazon, and this request makes it easy to leave a rating.
